The trial of the suit of Attorney Aftert B. Crafts of Cranston, formerly of Westerly, was begun Tuesday in the superior court at Providence against the Mechanics Savings bank of Westerly, which has been in liquidation for several years maying consideral years The bill of particulars sets forth lisms extending over a period from April 26, 1901, to June 8, 1984, Many of the charges are for services in looking up facts connected with certain oil companies in the indian Territory and other sections of the middle sections of the sections of the middle sections of the west. In the account against the bank, Mr. Crafts gives credit for a check for over $40,000, but contends that a large sum remains due.

This action was brought in Decem-ler, 1965, while the bank was engaged ber, 1995, while the bunk was engaged in paying a ten per cent, dividend, it caused much comment among the townspeople at that time. The trustess claimed that the Ur. Crafts had reselved as his fees about $15,900 and that they considered he had been well paid, and that the suit cause in "the case for promises broken" was not justified by the facts.

There were just thirteen members of the Westerly board of trade at a meeting held in the Memorial issual-ing Tuesday night, for an informat discussion of a sewer system for the village of Westerly. Upon the invita-tion of Prederick C, Baffum, chairman of the committee on municipal im-provement, O, Perry Sarls of Provi-
